I am Nathan Cech, a student at Northeast Community College. I will graduate in May with an application development degree. I found your posting indeed and I was interested because I am looking for a development position.

In my previous job experience with Northeast I worked with the application developers and got experience in using TFS and Git to push new updates. As long with getting to see the implementation of Azure DevOps. In classes I have a strong basis and knowledge in C# and MVC. With skills I have learned in class I can adapt and be extremely reliable on any challenge put in front of me. I am Nathan Cech, a student at Northeast Community College.
